John Teirnan told me about someone who lived back near Carranmore that a man would walk along the beach to pick up wood. Then he found a dead body, he picked him up and turned around, the hand of the dead man swung around and hit him in the head. This happened during World War I and it was at night.

By Shane Duffy

John Teirnan